THE DRIVING FORCE

Audi Japan puts customers at the centre of its strategy

We only have to look at the TV shows from the 1990s to know that the world has changed. With the proliferation of digitisation, and a significant increase in educational, social and cognitive research, schools are presented with great opportunities to better serve their community and society in general.

Taking advantage of this opportunity, we have strengthened our approach to developing relational skills, such as collaboration, communication, problem solving, risk taking, innovation and leadership.

As a way to complement this, we also focus on developing analytical skills, digital literacy and empathy in our learners with the aim of increasing their efficacy and agency.

Learning in context – where the connection between skills and conceptual understanding is clear and coherent – is important to us. It is this cycle of learning that enables us to make sense of our world. For us, holistic learning is applied using a systematic approach that involves team learning through inquiry. In doing this, we can show that, by applying what we have learned from contemporary research and grasping the positive power of digitisation, we are able to set conditions whereby our learners develop the skills, disposition and understanding needed to lead in creating positive change today and tomorrow.”

Where the children are really happy

For more than 50 years, Summerhill International School has been educating children between the ages of 15 months and six years, providing high quality education in a peaceful environment with dedicated teachers.

We are holding an information session day on March 18. Visit our website or call us to book your place.

We aim to empower our pupils to become global, compassionate, confident and respectful young people. We also deeply believe in the important role that the community plays for a child's early education, and host activities such as festivals, school-wide socials and charity events to foster this sense of community.

Leading positive change

Our mission at Aoba-Japan International School is to shape our pupils into compassionate, collaborative and global-minded people dedicated to learning and taking leading roles to make positive change in the world.

We also help our pupils' individuality flourish with our extensive sports, athletics, and visual and performing arts programs.

We offer an international baccalaureate curriculum to pupils of all nationalities from kindergarten to grade 12. In addition, we offer IT and Japanese classes to ensure that children are prepared for the future, and able to get the best out of their time living in Tokyo.

Be the best you can be

Aoba-Japan Bilingual Preschool is a learning environment where children from ages one to six can immerse themselves in learning in both English and Japanese, laying the groundwork for future bilingual learning and for our pupils to become confident global citizens.

Because collaboration is essential to a child's social and educational development, we hold special events, such as a summer festival, sports day, English performance day and music recital day for pupils of mixed age groups.

We also offer a wide range of programmes usually found outside of school for the convenience of the working family, including gymnastics, piano, swimming and karate.
